A Proven Solution to the Frustrations with Peanut Policies

Ann Arbor, MI. -- Most everyone is familiar with the recent anger and frustration of parents at schools that instituted various peanut allergy policies. These incidents are sure to continue as the Americans for Disabilities Act requires all schools to put stricter policies in place to protect the peanut allergic kids from life-threatening risks.

The real solution may be as simple as a complete ban of peanut butter while allowing children to bring their favorite ‘PB&J’ but with a new 100% natural peanut free sandwich spread called WOWBUTTER. WOWBUTTER customers claim the product is the perfect safe-for-school peanut butter replacement, equal or better in taste and nutrition than peanut butter, and that it really does tastes just like regular peanut butter. The name WOWBUTTER derives from its slogan “WOW! Tastes Just Like Peanut Butter!”

According to Scott Mahon, WOWBUTTER president, “Just as in Canada, where virtually all 10,000 schools already ban peanut butter, and where children are allowed to bring WOWBUTTER and Jelly sandwiches to school, this indeed may be the perfect solution to all the frustration, anger, controversy and stress it is placing on parents, teachers and kids at thousands of schools across the US”. Mahon added, “In addition, it will stop the resulting negative and harmful psychological effects on both allergic and non allergic children, while bringing more respectability to schools and teachers and creating harmony with the parents.”

Though schools already know a complete ban is also the only true fail-safe solution to the isolation and bullying of peanut allergic kids, many schools have not implemented a total peanut ban because of the objections of parents. But with the widespread availability of safe-for-school WOWBUTTER, the transition to a full peanut ban is now much easier for administrators to implement.

The WOWBUTTER company states the combination of a complete peanut butter ban and the use of this new peanut butter replacement will provide a healthier, safer, more united and happier school environment.

The company offers samples and information to every school that requests it. You can read more about this proven peanut policy solution and for stores near you at www.WOWBUTTER.com .
